From Phillipa Harbey by e-mail, phillipa@plasterhillfarm.plus.com;-

In your newsletter of October 2003 you talk about eating ivory. Just wanted to tell you that there is a very similar recipe in the early 1900 edition of Mrs Beeton's Family Cookery.

I am researching the use of abrasive airjets in dentistry and have not been very successful in finding information on their first inception and use. I came upon your site for the History of Dentistry Research Group and was hoping you might be able to point me to some resources of information. I thank you much for your time.
